

Claire Elise Harris – Opera Revue/Piano

Originally from New Zealand, Claire is Opera Revue's Southern Hemisphere representative. She doesn't mind being referred to as a kiwi, just don't offer her a Vegemite sandwich. It's Marmite or nothing, haters to the left. Claire has been playing the piano since she was a wee girl, but discovered the magic of collaborative piano in her undergraduate degree at the New Zealand School of Music. Because she likes to live dangerously, she also joined several contemporary music ensembles at this time. Since then, the weird and wonderful world of new music, and the weird and wonderful world of collaborative piano have been her two true loves. Before moving to Toronto in 2018, Claire lived in London (the big one) for 8 years, getting her Master's degree from the Royal College of Music. Now she has swapped cups of tea for cups of Tim's and lives happily in the west end with 2 cats (and a partner).
